WHEREAS, the decision of the fire commissioner, dated March 24, 1924, reads:

and

WHEREAS, the building is fireproof, one story in height, 24 ft. by 18 ft. in area; OCCUPIED for the manufacturing of varnish; and

WHEREAS, appellant contends that the burner installed is the Anthony Nebulyte Burner of the mechanical domestic air insulating type; that the oil orifice is fixed in size, that the only pipe less than ½ in. in diameter is a piece about 4 ft. long on each of four burners located between the oil regulating valve and the burner; that it is of the greatest importance that there should be the smallest possible volume of oil between the oil regulating valve and the burner, and that they use ¾ in. extra heavy steel pipe for the purpose; the internal transverse area of ¾ in. is .141 sq. in. compared with .304 sq. in. for ½ in. standard pipe, and that the ¾ in. pipe is 43 per cent stronger than the standard ½ in.; and relative to objection No. 4, these objections refer to the main buildings and not to the small building in which the varnish kettles are located, and requests a temporary permit for 90 days pending the adjustment of the matter with the fire commissioner; and

NOTICE

RULES GOVERNING SPRINKLER AND STANDPIPE EQUIPMENT IN ONE STORY GARAGE BUILDINGS RESCINDED JANUARY 29, 1924.

Notice is hereby given that the following resolution, adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals, April 19, 1920, Under Cal. No. 179-20-S, was rescinded by the board on January 29, 1924, as shown in the minutes published in Bulletin No. 6, Vol. IX:

Under the powers conferred upon it by Section 718a of the Charter, the Board of Standards and Appeals does hereby make rules and regulations for the carrying into effect of the provisions of Section 72, subdivision L, and Section 581 of Chapter 5 of the Code of Ordinances as follows:

Resolved, that the provisions of Section 72, subdivision L of Chapter 5, of the Code of Ordinances, shall not apply to buildings not exceeding one story in height, the purpose of which is occupancy as a garage, motor vehicle repair shop, or oil selling station, which buildings do not exceed an area of 15,000 sq. ft. when located on an interior lot or when facing on only one street or 24,000 sq. ft. when facing on two streets or 30,000 sq. ft. when facing on three streets; provided that the building is equipped with an approved system of automatic sprinklers or with a line of 2½ in. pipe carried around the interior walls of the building or attached to the columns which carry the roof girders and connected with the street main by 2 in. tap and sufficient length of hose, and from which line branches are taken for the house service.

Resolved, further, that under the provisions of Section 581, subdivision 4 of Chapter 5 of the Code of Ordinances, in similar structures, a line of 2½ in. pipe connected with the street main by 2 in. tap and sufficient length of hose at intervals of 100 ft. or less shall be deemed a standpipe within the meaning of this section, but no siamese connection need be provided on condition that the pressure in the street main shall be not less than 45 lbs.

RULES ADOPTED

EXIT RULES—REVOLVING DOORS.

Adopted, under Cal. No. 842-17-S, Sept. 6, 1917; amended, under Cal. No. 41-19-S, Feb. 11, 1919; under Cal. No. 412-20-S, July 8, 1920, and under Cal. No. 41-19-S, Jan. 8, 1924.

Rule 1. Classification of Revolving Doors. For the purpose of these rules revolving doors shall be classified as follows:

(a) Type A. "Automatic Collapsible" in which the individual wings are maintained in the normal revolving position, but which doors are so designed and constructed that in the event of excessive pressure being exerted on the wings, the braces or other devices which hold the wings in their normal position shall be disconnected, thereby permitting easy egress through the vestibule at least equivalent to that provided by a pair of swinging doors having the same width as the vestibule opening.

No revolving doors shall be included in this classification if the pressure necessary to collapse any wing exceeds one hundred and fifty (150) pounds when exerted at a point three (3) inches from the outer edge of the wing, and three (3) feet six (6) inches above the floor, but shall be classified under type B.

(b) Type B. "Rigid Brace" in which the individual wings are maintained in the normal revolving position by rigid braces or similar devices, but which doors are so designed and constructed that the braces or other devices which hold the wings in their normal position may be manually released by simple mechanical means, thereby permitting the individual wings to be manually collapsed and so arranged as to permit free egress through the vestibule.

Rule 2. Revolving Doors. Prohibitions. Revolving doors shall be prohibited in exit doorways from assembly halls, asylums, auditoriums, churches, dance halls, hospitals, motion picture theatres, schools, theatres, or from any room or space within a building where more than three hundred (300) persons congregate for purposes of amusement, instruction or worship; except that the main entrance doorway to a hospital or sanitarium may be equipped with either type A or B revolving doors when supplemented by swinging doors not less than three (3) feet eight (8) inches wide at this or other paths of egress.

Rule 3. Revolving Doors—Department Stores. Type A revolving doors hereafter installed shall be accepted in exit doorways from department stores provided doorways aggregating at least fifty (50) per cent of the legal required width, equipped with swinging doors, are installed, and one or more such outwardly swinging doors are located immediately adjacent to each revolving door. Such swinging doors need not be equipped with handles on the outside, and shall have a minimum clear width of three (3) feet.

Rule 4. Existing Revolving Doors. Except where otherwise prohibited existing Type A revolving doors may be retained as required means of exit in doorways from buildings.

Except where otherwise prohibited existing Type B revolving doors may also be retained as required means of exit in buildings, when, in the opinion of the administrative official having jurisdiction, no dangerous exit condition exists. If, however, such dangerous exit condition is deemed by him to exist, they shall be either replaced by Type A revolving doors, or supplemented by at least one swinging door not less than three (3) feet wide located adjacent to the revolving door, as the administrative official may direct.

Rule 5. New Revolving Doors. In buildings other than assembly halls, asylums, auditoriums, churches, dance halls, department stores, hospitals, motion picture theatres, schools and theatres, coming under the exit provisions of the building code, doorways serving as required exits may hereafter be equipped with Type A revolving doors or with Type B revolving doors, provided such revolving doors, not exceeding three in a unit, shall have an outwardly swinging door at least three (3) feet wide located immediately adjacent thereto.

Rule 6. Revolving Doors—Subway Entrances. Required exit doorways from buildings which serve in addition as a means of subway entrance and exit may be equipped with type A revolving doors, provided doorways of the legal required width equipped with swinging doors are also installed and one or more such outwardly swinging doors are located adjacent to each revolving door.

Rule 7. Saving Clause. But nothing in these rules shall prevent the installation on the exit doors from a bank, trust company, jewelry store, or any store devoted to a single similar use, of a locking device which may be operated by electricity or other means from the interior of the building, to be used only in an emergency.

RULES

COMMUNITY LAUNDRIES IN BUSINESS DISTRICTS.

Amended Resolution Adopted by the Board of Appeals, March 16, 1920, Under Cal. No. 549-17-BZ.

WHEREAS, the board of appeals, at its regular meeting, December 16, 1919, unanimously rescinded an opinion incidentally expressed and incorporated in a resolution adopted by the board on May 28, 1917, in acting on Cal. No. 549-17-BZ. This opinion was that a laundry is not a prohibited use in a business district under the building zone resolution. The board unanimously rescinded this expression of opinion, inasmuch as a laundry is a factory within the meaning of the labor law and must be so construed under the building zone resolution in the absence of any definition therein to the contrary.

Resolved, that this shall not be construed to include within the prohibited uses specified under Section 4 of the building zone resolution a community or neighborhood laundry located in the basement or ground floor of a building within a business district and containing not more than eight (8) rotary washing machines with inside cylinders not more than 30 in. in diameter by 30 in. in length over all nor more than two 20 in. extractors, the 20 in. measurement being the diameter of the inside basket, which machines and extractors shall be operated solely by electric power and do not require the installation of steam boiler or plant.

(410-24-SR)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Board of Standards and Appeals on Friday, June 13, 1924, at 2 p. m., in Room 919, Municipal Building, on proposed amendments of Rules 2 and 3, Industrial Code, and the adoption of the amended rules as rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals affecting the Enclosure of Factory Stairways, and the storage of combustible material about factory stairways.

New matter printed below; [] old matter to be omitted.

ENCLOSURE OF FACTORY STAIRWAYS

(410-24-SR)

Supplementary to Labor Law, § 79-b; originally adopted August 28, 1913, and effective October 1, 1913; amended November 18, 1915; revised and readopted February 10, 1916, effective March 1, 1916.

[Rule 2.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings five stories or less in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than twenty-five persons employed above the second floor, all interior stairways, serving as required means of exit, and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from the lowest point of the stairway in accordance with the following schedule:

Number of stories	Contents combustible, no sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, no sprinkler	Contents combustible, and sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, and sprinkler
Three	Stairways Enclosed
Four	Stairways Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed
Five	Stairways Enclosed		Stairways Enclosed

The term "contents" as used above means articles, goods, wares and merchandise, packed, stored, manufactured or in the process of manufacture.

The term "combustible" as used above means articles, goods, wares or merchandise which will burn or support combustion.

The term "sprinkler" as used above means an adequate automatic sprinkler equipment installed and maintained in good working order on each floor.

PUBLIC HEARING

Where the stairway extends to the top floor of the building, such partitions shall extend to three feet above the roof, except in buildings with roofs of non-combustible material, in which case the partitions may stop at the under side of the roof.

All openings in such partitions shall be provided with self-closing doors constructed of fire-resisting material, except where such openings are in the exterior wall of the building.

The bottom of the enclosure shall be of fireproof material at least four inches thick unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Such enclosure of stairways shall not be required where there is an interior enclosed fireproof stairway, or where there is an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway.

A horizontal exit, as defined in section 79-f, subdivision 9 of the Labor Law, will be accepted as a compliance with this rule.

STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL ABOUT FACTORY STAIRWAYS

Supplementary to Labor Law, §79-a to 79-f; adopted August 28, 1913; effective October 1, 1913.

Rule 3.—In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith, nor shall such articles or wares be kept or stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.]

Rule 2.—Definitions.

1. "Height of Building"—For the purpose of classification under this rule, the height of a building shall mean the number of stories, and shall be determined as follows: Where the ground adjoining the building is of uniform grade or does not vary in grade more than one story, the height shall be the number of stories above the lowest grade of the ground adjoining the building; where the ground adjoining the building varies in grade to the extent of involving more than one story, the average between the number of stories above the highest grade and the number of stories above the lowest grade on two or more sides of the building shall be taken as the height of the building. A fraction of a story produced in computing such average shall be counted as one story.

2. "Grade Exit" means a door in an exterior wall of a building from any floor, affording direct access to adjoining ground from which there is safe and unobstructed access to a street or road. In no case shall the vertical distance from door sill to ground exceed five feet, and in case the distance to the ground shall exceed three feet, an approved means of access to the ground shall be provided.

3. "Story" means that part of any building comprised between any floor or roof next above.

4. "Ground Floor" or "First Floor" means the floor at or nearest the ground surrounding the building; unless the ground surrounding the building is irregular in grade, in which case the term shall mean, for the purposes of this rule, the floor which, having one or more exits to grade, is not more than 12 feet above the ground taken at the center line of the facade where the grade is lowest.

The "Ground Floor" and "First Floor" wherever used in these rules are used as synonymous terms.

Rule 2-a.—Occupancy Classification.

The following classification of occupancy with respect to the degree of hazard is hereby established:

Low Hazard

1. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which do not ordinarily burn rapidly or with excessive smoke, and from which neither poisonous fumes nor explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Moderate Hazard

2. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which are liable to burn with moderate rapidity and to give off considerable volume of smoke, but from which neither poisonous fumes nor explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Bags (cloth, burlap and paper)	Linoleum works
Bakeries	Metals (with enameling or japanning)
Bamboo and rattan	Packing houses

Leather (with enameling or japanning)

High Hazard

3. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which are liable to burn with extreme rapidity or from which poisonous fumes or explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Artificial flowers	Feed, flour and grist mills
Artificial leather	Fireworks
Celluloid	Imitation leather
Cereal mills	Matches
*Chemicals of all kinds (except where serious flame, fume or explosion hazards are not present)	Rag sorting (including cotton)

The Board shall rule upon new occupancies as they arise and pass upon points under dispute.

Where there are occupancies of two or more degrees of hazard, the building shall be classified according to the higher hazard, unless special modification is made by the Board in cases where the higher hazard is incidental or well segregated.

Rule 2-b.

Subdivision 1. Enclosures Required.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings more than two stories

PUBLIC HEARING

less than six stories in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than five persons employed at manufacturing, all interior stairways serving required means of exit and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from any floor or floors, so served to the nearest approved grade exit of the stairways. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road.

The application of this rule shall be in accordance with the following table:

Stories	1 Contents of high hazard	2 Contents of moderate hazard		3 Contents of low hazard
		No sprinkler	Sprinkler	No sprinkler	Sprinkler
One	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Two	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Three or more	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.

The stairway enclosure shall be independently ceiled over with fire-resisting material.

Exception: Buildings having fireproof roof slab where enclosure terminates at underside of such slab.

Where the stairway is required to extend to the roof, the enclosure shall be so built as to form a pent house.

There shall be not less than seven (7) feet head room in every stairway.

All door openings in such enclosure shall be protected with fire doors opening into the stairway enclosure, equipped with self-closing devices. Grade exit doors shall open outwardly to grade and need not be fire doors.

The enclosure shall be ventilated by a skylight in the roof with louvres or ventilators, or exterior windows with tilting sections at the top floor. Exterior windows within thirty (30) feet of non-fireproof structures shall be fireproof windows. Skylights, unless provided with tempered glass, shall have thereunder a shield of wire mesh in substantial frame work.

The bottom of the enclosures shall be of fireproof material at least four (4) inches thick, unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Subdivision 2. Enclosures Not Required.—Except in buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard, the stairways shall not be required to be enclosed where a horizontal exit, as defined in section 267 of the Fire Law, is provided on all floors and the stairways serving as required exits on each side of the horizontal exit are remote from the horizontal exit, provided that either an approved fire alarm signal system conforming to the rules of the board is installed in the building and fire doors substantially conforming to rules of the board are provided, or an approved sprinkler system conforming to rules of the board is installed.

Section 2-c.—Required Exits and Enclosures of Stairways in Two-story Factory Buildings.

Required Exits.—In every two-story factory building erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which more than five persons are employed at manufacturing, there shall be provided from each floor at least two means of exit or escape from fire remote from each other, one of which from every floor above or below grade shall lead to or open on an interior stairway which shall be enclosed, as hereinafter provided in subdivision 2, or on an exterior enclosed stairway. The other may lead to such a stairway, or to a horizontal or grade exit, or to an exterior screened stairway, or to a fire escape. No point on any floor of such building shall be more than one hundred and fifty (150) feet distant from such an exit.

2. Enclosure of Stairways.—In two-story buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard and in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit shall be enclosed from the lowest point of such stairway to the ceiling of the first floor by partitions of fire-resisting material, unless the building is provided with a sprinkler system, in which case such enclosure of stairways shall not be required. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road, or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road. All openings in such enclosure shall be provided with fire doors equipped with self-closing devices.

All reference herein to "Enclosure of Stairways" shall be considered as applying only to required stairways.

Rule 3.—Storage of Combustible Material About Factory Stairways.

In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith nor shall such articles or wares be kept stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.

WARNING.

Notice is hereby given to all petitioners, appellants and applicants for relief at the hands of the Board of Standards and Appeals and of the Board of Appeals, and to all lawyers, architects and engineers representing owners or lessees in proceedings before these boards—

First, That if they do not appear in person or by representative at the hearing on their case, dismissal for lack of prosecution is likely to result.

Second, That due and ample notice of the date set for hearing is provided in the publication in this BULLETIN of the calendars of these boards, each case being set down by Calendar Number and premises under the date of the hearing.

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the board and of the further publication of the calendars in the daily press.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

Fifth, That the business of these boards is to dispose of all cases promptly, for the reason that the pendency of an appeal or petition ties the hands of the administrative official in enforcing his order; therefore, no appeal or petition will be allowed to be hung up by reason of failure of the appellant or petitioner to file necessary data, or by any other method of delay.

WHEREAS, a committee of the board visited the premises and reports:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE:

On May 2nd, 1924, a Committee of the Board, consisting of Chairman Walsh, Fire Chief Kenlon, Messrs. Boulton, Holland and Kerby, inspected the premises affecting which there is an appeal now pending before the Board, seeking a variation of the building zone resolution under section 20 for the erection of a public garage. The plot is located on the southwest corner of Davidson Avenue and 181st Street, approximately 92 feet in area.

On the southeast and southwest corners of Davidson Avenue and 181st Street there exist public garages one story above grade of Davidson Avenue, the one on the southeast corner having been erected prior to the adoption of the building zone resolution and the one on the northeast corner having been granted by an action of this Board.

The east side of Davidson Avenue south of 181st Street is occupied practically in its entirety by modern apartment houses. On the west side of Davidson Avenue contiguous to the garage site under appeal, there is in the course of completion a row of three story, two family dwellings. The northwest corner of Davidson Avenue and 181st Street is occupied by a recently completed modern six story apartment house. These dwelling developments in major part have been completed since the erection of the original garage on the southeast corner and it would therefore appear that the original garage was not a deterrent to the adjacent properties of structures of conforming uses.

The Committee is of the opinion that the appellant has failed to justify his basis of appeal under section 20, namely, hardship and practical difficulty, and therefore recommends that the application be denied.

JOHN KENLON,
ALFRED J. BOULTON,

Rule 1. Classification of Revolving Doors. For the purpose of these rules revolving doors shall be classified as follows:

(a) Type A. "Automatic Collapsible" in which the individual wings are maintained in the normal revolving position, but which doors are so designed and constructed that in the event of excessive pressure being exerted on the wings, the braces or other devices which hold the wings in their normal position shall be disconnected, thereby permitting easy egress through the vestibule at least equivalent to that provided by a pair of swinging doors having the same width as the vestibule opening.

No revolving doors shall be included in this classification if the pressure necessary to collapse any wing exceeds one hundred and fifty (150) pounds when exerted at a point three (3) inches from the outer edge of the wing, and three (3) feet six (6) inches above the floor, but shall be classified under type B.

(b) Type B. "Rigid Brace" in which the individual wings are maintained in the normal revolving position by rigid braces or similar devices, but which doors are so designed and constructed that the braces or other devices which hold the wings in their normal position may be manually released by simple mechanical means, thereby permitting the individual wings to be manually collapsed and so arranged as to permit free egress through the vestibule.

Rule 2. Revolving Doors. Prohibitions. Revolving doors shall be prohibited in exit doorways from assembly halls, asylums, auditoriums, churches, dance halls, hospitals, motion picture theatres, schools, theatres, or from any room or space within a building where more than three hundred (300) persons congregate for purposes of amusement, instruction or worship; except that the main entrance doorway to a hospital or sanitarium may be equipped with either type A or B revolving doors when supplemented by swinging doors not less than three (3) feet eight (8) inches wide at this or other paths of egress.

Rule 3. Revolving Doors—Department Stores. Type A revolving doors hereafter installed shall be accepted in exit doorways from department stores provided doorways aggregating at least fifty (50) per cent of the legal required width, equipped with swinging doors, are installed, and one or more such outwardly swinging doors are located immediately adjacent to each revolving door. Such swinging doors need not be equipped with handles on the outside, and shall have a minimum clear width of three (3) feet.

Rule 4. Existing Revolving Doors. Except where otherwise prohibited existing Type A revolving doors may be retained as required means of exit in doorways from buildings.

Except where otherwise prohibited existing Type B revolving doors may also be retained as required means of exit in buildings, when, in the opinion of the administrative official having jurisdiction, no dangerous exit condition exists. If, however, such dangerous exit condition is deemed by him to exist, they shall be either replaced by Type A revolving doors, or supplemented by at least one swinging door not less than three (3) feet wide located adjacent to the revolving door, as the administrative official may direct.

Rule 5. New Revolving Doors. In buildings other than assembly halls, asylums, auditoriums, churches, dance halls, department stores, hospitals, motion picture theatres, schools and theatres, coming under the exit provisions of the building code, doorways serving as required exits may hereafter be equipped with Type A revolving doors or with Type B revolving doors, provided such revolving doors, not exceeding three in a unit, shall have an outwardly swinging door at least three (3) feet wide located immediately adjacent thereto.

Rule 6. Revolving Doors—Subway Entrances. Required exit doorways from buildings which serve in addition as a means of subway entrance and exit may be equipped with type A revolving doors, provided doorways of the legal required width equipped with swinging doors are also installed and one or more such outwardly swinging doors are located adjacent to each revolving door.

Rule 7. Saving Clause. But nothing in these rules shall prevent the installation on the exit doors from a bank, trust company, jewelry store, or any store devoted to a single similar use, of a locking device which may be operated by electricity or other means from the interior of the building, to be used only in an emergency.

RULES

COMMUNITY LAUNDRIES IN BUSINESS DISTRICTS.

Amended Resolution Adopted by the Board of Appeals, March 16, 1920, Under Cal. No. 549-17-BZ.

WHEREAS, the board of appeals, at its regular meeting, December 16, 1919, unanimously rescinded an opinion incidentally expressed and incorporated in a resolution adopted by the board on May 28, 1917, in acting on Cal. No. 549-17-BZ. This opinion was that a laundry is not a prohibited use in a business district under the building zone resolution. The board unanimously rescinded this expression of opinion, inasmuch as a laundry is a factory within the meaning of the labor law and must be so construed under the building zone resolution in the absence of any definition therein to the contrary.

Resolved, that this shall not be construed to include within the prohibited uses specified under Section 4 of the building zone resolution a community or neighborhood laundry located in the basement or ground floor of a building within a business district and containing not more than eight (8) rotary washing machines with inside cylinders not more than 30 in. in diameter by 30 in. in length over all nor more than two 20 in. extractors, the 20 in. measurement being the diameter of the inside basket, which machines and extractors shall be operated solely by electric power and do not require the installation of steam boiler or plant.

REPORTING STRUCTURAL ALTERATIONS, ADOPTED FEBRUARY 8, 1917, UNDER CAL. 352-16-S.

Resolved, That for the purpose of establishing uniform practice with regards to the reporting of structural alterations made under the requirements of the labor law, the following rule be and it is hereby adopted:

When plans have been filed with the proper superintendent of buildings and structural alterations have been made to comply with the requirements of the labor law relating to exits and fire protection, or with an order of the State

Labor Department relating to exits issued prior to October 1, 1916, or with an order of the fire commissioner issued subsequent to October 1, 1916, a report shall be made by the superintendent of buildings to the fire commissioner stating whether the work done complies with the order of the State Labor Department, with the order of the fire commissioner, or with the provisions of the State Labor Law, as the case may be.

Substandard fire escapes shall not be considered as a basis for increased occupancy of the building. When such substandard fire escapes are located in any court or on the side or rear of a building, proper egress to a point of safety shall be provided, either to open adjoining yards, or the lowest balcony may be connected to an adjoining fire escape, exterior stairway, or to roof of adjoining extension, or other egress satisfactory to the Fire Commissioner. All such fire escapes shall be maintained structurally safe and properly painted.

(b) Interior Stairways—All interior stairways not conforming to the requirements of the Labor Law or rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals may be retained, provided that egress to same is maintained unobstructed, halls are properly lighted, and all landings, passageways, etc., are maintained free and unobstructed. An easily operated panic bolt or other similar device may be installed at street exit door.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO RULES FOR STAIRWAY ENCLOSURES IN FACTORY BUILDINGS

(410-24-SR)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Board of Standards and Appeals on Friday, June 13, 1924, at 2 p. m., in Room 919, Municipal Building, on proposed amendments of Rules 2 and 3, Industrial Code, and the adoption of the amended rules as proposed by the Board of Standards and Appeals affecting the enclosure of Factory Stairways, and the storage of combustible material about factory stairways.

New matter printed below; [] old matter to be omitted.

ENCLOSURE OF FACTORY STAIRWAYS

(410-24-SR)

Supplementary to Labor Law, § 79-b; originally adopted August 28, 1913, and effective October 1, 1913; amended November 18, 1915; revised and readopted February 10, 1916, effective March 1, 1916.

Rule 2.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings five stories or less in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than twenty persons employed above the second floor, all interior stairways, serving as required means of exit, and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from the lowest landing of the stairway in accordance with the following schedule:

Number of stories	Contents combustible, no sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, no sprinkler	Contents combustible, and sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, and sprinkler
Three	Stairways Enclosed
Four	Stairways Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed
Five	Stairways Enclosed		Stairways Enclosed

The term "contents" as used above means articles, goods, wares and merchandise, packed, stored, manufactured or in the process of manufacture.

The term "combustible" as used above means articles, goods, wares or merchandise which will burn or support combustion.

The term "sprinkler" as used above means an adequate automatic sprinkler equipment installed and maintained in good working order on each floor.

PUBLIC HEARING

Where the stairway extends to the top floor of the building, such partitions shall extend to three feet above the roof, except in buildings with roofs of non-combustible material, in which case the partitions may stop at the under side of the roof.

All openings in such partitions shall be provided with self-closing doors constructed of fire-resisting material, except where such openings are in the exterior wall of the building.

The bottom of the enclosure shall be of fireproof material at least four inches thick unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Such enclosure of stairways shall not be required where there is an interior enclosed fireproof stairway, or where there is an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway.

A horizontal exit, as defined in section 79-f, subdivision 9 of the Labor Law, will be accepted as a compliance with this rule.

STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL ABOUT FACTORY STAIRWAYS

Supplementary to Labor Law, §79-a to 79-f; adopted August 28, 1913; effective October 1, 1913.

Rule 3.—In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith, nor shall such articles or wares be kept or stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.]

Rule 2.—Definitions.

1. "Height of Building"—For the purpose of classification under this rule, the height of a building shall mean the number of stories, and shall be determined as follows: Where the ground adjoining the building is of uniform grade or does not vary in grade more than one story, the height shall be the number of stories above the lowest grade of the ground adjoining the building; where the ground adjoining the building varies in grade to the extent of involving more than one story, the average between the number of stories above the highest grade and the number of stories above the lowest grade on two or more sides of the building shall be taken as the height of the building. A fraction of a story produced in computing such average shall be counted as one story.

2. "Grade Exit" means a door in an exterior wall of a building from any floor, affording direct access to adjoining ground from which there is safe and unobstructed access to a street or road. In no case shall the vertical distance from door sill to ground exceed five feet, and in case the distance to the ground shall exceed three feet, an approved means of access to the ground shall be provided.

3. "Story" means that part of any building comprised between any floor or roof next above.

4. "Ground Floor" or "First Floor" means the floor at or nearest the ground surrounding the building; unless the ground surrounding the building is irregular in grade, in which case the term shall mean, for the purposes of this rule, the floor which, having one or more exits to grade, is not more than 12 feet above the ground taken at the center line of the facade where the grade is lowest.

The "Ground Floor" and "First Floor" wherever used in these rules are used as synonymous terms.

Rule 2-a.—Occupancy Classification.

The following classification of occupancy with respect to the degree of hazard is hereby established:

Low Hazard

Rule 2-b.

Subdivision 1. Enclosures Required.—Except as hereinafter provided, in all factory buildings more than two stories

PUBLIC HEARING

and less than six stories in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than five persons employed at manufacturing, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from any floor or floors, so served to the nearest approved grade exit of the stairways. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road.

The application of this rule shall be in accordance with the following table:

WARNING.

Notice is hereby given to all petitioners, appellants and applicants for relief at the hands of the Board of Standards and Appeals and of the Board of Appeals, and to all lawyers, architects and engineers representing owners or lessees in proceedings before these boards—

First, That if they do not appear in person or by representative at the hearing on their case, dismissal for lack of prosecution is likely to result.

Second, That due and ample notice of the date set for hearing is provided in the publication in this BULLETIN of the calendars of these boards, each case being set down by Calendar Number and premises under the date of the hearing.

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the board and of the further publication of the calendars in the daily press.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

Fifth, That the business of these boards is to dispose of all cases promptly, for the reason that the pendency of an appeal or petition ties the hands of the administrative official in enforcing his order; therefore, no appeal or petition will be allowed to be hung up by reason of failure of the appellant or petitioner to file necessary data, or by any other method of delay.

Such enclosure of stairways shall not be required where there is an interior enclosed fireproof stairway, or where there is an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway.

STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL ABOUT FACTORY STAIRWAYS

Supplementary to Labor Law, §79-a to 79-f; adopted August 28, 1913; effective October 1, 1913.

Rule 3.—In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith, nor shall such articles or wares be kept or stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.]

Rule 2.—Definitions.

1. "Height of Building"—For the purpose of classification under this rule, the height of a building shall mean the number of stories, and shall be determined as follows: Where the ground adjoining the building is of uniform grade or does not vary in grade more than one story, the height shall be the number of stories above the lowest grade of the ground adjoining the building; where the ground adjoining the building varies in grade to the extent of involving more than one story, the average between the number of stories above the highest grade and the number of stories above the lowest grade on two or more sides of the building shall be taken as the height of the building. A fraction of a story produced in computing such average shall be counted as one story.

2. "Grade Exit" means a door in an exterior wall of a building from any floor, affording direct access to adjoining ground from which there is safe and unobstructed access to a street or road. In no case shall the vertical distance from door sill to ground exceed five feet, and in case the distance to the ground shall exceed three feet, an approved means of access to the ground shall be provided.

3. "Story" means that part of any building comprised between any floor or roof next above.

4. "Ground Floor" or "First Floor" means the floor at or nearest the ground surrounding the building; unless the ground surrounding the building is irregular in grade, in which case the term shall mean, for the purposes of this rule, the floor which, having one or more exits to grade, is not more than 12 feet above the ground taken at the center line of the facade where the grade is lowest.

The "Ground Floor" and "First Floor" wherever used in these rules are used as synonymous terms.

Subdivision 1. Enclosures Required.—Except as here-in provided, in all factory buildings more than two stories

PUBLIC HEARING

and less than six stories in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than five persons employed at manufacturing, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from any floor or floors, so served to the nearest approved grade exit of the stairways. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road.

The application of this rule shall be in accordance with the following table:

Stories	1 Contents of high hazard	2 Contents of moderate hazard		3 Contents of low hazard
		No sprinkler	Sprinkler	No sprinkler	Sprinkler
One	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Two	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.

Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.

The stairway enclosure shall be independently ceiled over with fire-resisting material.

Exception: Buildings having fireproof roof slab where enclosure terminates at underside of such slab.

Where the stairway is required to extend to the roof, the enclosure shall be so built as to form a pent house.

There shall be not less than seven (7) feet head room over every stairway.

All door openings in such enclosure shall be protected with fire doors opening into the stairway enclosure, equipped with self-closing devices. Grade exit doors shall open outwardly to grade and need not be fire doors.

The enclosure shall be ventilated by a skylight in the roof with louvres or ventilators, or exterior windows with ventilating sections at the top floor. Skylights, unless provided with red glass, shall have thereunder a shield of wire mesh in substantial frame work.

The bottom of the enclosures shall be of fireproof material at least four (4) inches thick, unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Subdivision 2. Enclosures Not Required.—Except in buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard, the stairways shall not be required to be enclosed where a horizontal exit, as defined in section 267 of the Labor Law, is provided on all floors and the stairways serving as required exits on each side of the horizontal exit are remote from the horizontal exit, provided that either an approved fire alarm signal system conforming to rules of the board is installed in the building and fire drills substantially conforming to rules of the board are held, or an approved sprinkler system conforming to rules of the board is installed.

Rule 2-c.—Required Exits and Enclosures of Stairways in Two-story Factory Buildings.

Required Exits.—In every two-story factory building erected prior to October 1, 1913 in which more than five persons are employed at manufacturing, there shall be provided from each floor at least two means of exit or escape from fire remote from each other, one of which from every floor above or below grade shall lead to or open on an interior stairway which shall be enclosed, as hereinafter provided in subdivision 2, or on an exterior enclosed stairway. The other may lead to such a stairway, or to a horizontal or grade exit, or to an exterior screened stairway, or to a fire escape. No point on any floor of such building shall be more than one hundred and fifty (150) feet distant from such an exit.

2. Enclosure of Stairways.—In two-story buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard and in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit shall be enclosed from the lowest point of such stairway to the ceiling of the first floor by partitions of fire-resisting material, unless the building is provided with a sprinkler system, in which case such enclosure of stairways shall not be required. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road, or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road. All openings in such enclosure shall be provided with fire doors equipped with self-closing devices.

All reference herein to "Enclosure of Stairways" shall be considered as applying only to required stairways.

WARNING.

Notice is hereby given to all petitioners, appellants and applicants for relief at the hands of the Board of Standards and Appeals and of the Board of Appeals, and to all lawyers, architects and engineers representing owners or lessees in proceedings before these boards—

First, That if they do not appear in person or by representative at the hearing on their case, dismissal for lack of prosecution is likely to result.

Second, That due and ample notice of the date set for hearing is provided in the publication in this BULLETIN of the calendars of these boards, each case being set down by Calendar Number and premises under the date of the hearing.

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the board and of the further publication of the calendars in the daily press.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

Fifth, That the business of these boards is to dispose of all cases promptly, for the reason that the pendency of an appeal or petition ties the hands of the administrative official in enforcing his order; therefore, no appeal or petition will be allowed to be hung up by reason of failure of the appellant or petitioner to file necessary data, or by any other method of delay.

Cal. No. 76-24-BZ.

June 7, 1924.

Premises—N. E. Corner of Jerome Avenue & Clifford Place, The Bronx.

TO THE BOARD OF APPEALS:

A Committee of the Board, consisting of Chairman Walsh, Fire Chief Kenlon, Messrs. Kerby, Connell and Holland, visited this site to personally observe the premises and surrounding properties and consider the environs, because of the confliction of testimony given at the hearing held on May 20, 1924.

This application is for the consideration of a building group, including dwellings in the residence district, stores in the business district, and a public garage intervening between the aforesaid uses.

The property under consideration is at the northeast corner formed by the intersection of Clifford Place and Jerome Avenue; the opposite, or west side of Jerome Avenue, being unintersected for a distance of three blocks north from Featherbed Lane. On the southeast corner of Clifford Place and Jerome Avenue, there is in operation a wet wash laundry, with all the objectionable features attendant thereto and incidental to the conduct of a business of this nature, which includes constant coming and going of delivery wagons and receipt and delivery of goods.

The applicant proposes, in the development of his property, extending from Jerome Avenue east to Townsend Avenue, to confine himself to the use district regulations on the Jerome Avenue front by development with stores or shops, and on the Townsend Avenue side with two family dwellings, and, in the intervening space of possibly eighty feet he seeks to maintain a public garage, directly opposite the existing wet wash laundry. The only private dwellings in the vicinity are located on the street to the east (Townsend Avenue), which is the natural line of travel for pedestrian use to the nearest railroad stations.

It therefore appears to the Committee that the interests of the community would not be infringed or impaired by the erection of this proposed garage, as the only one affected would be the owner of this group development immediately in the rear of the proposed garage.

The Committee recommends the granting of the garage use variation, contingent on the development of the property as a whole, a plot 100 feet by 200 feet in area, as indicated on plans filed in this application, with business structures on Jerome Avenue separated from the proposed garage by unpierced walls, the dwellings proposed on Townsend Avenue to be constructed in conjunction with and at the same time as the garage, the dwellings and business structures to be enclosed and roofed over before a certificate of occupancy is issued by the superintendent of buildings for the garage structure.

(Signed) WILLIAM E. WALSH,
JOHN KENLON,
JAMES P. HOLLAND,
JOHN C. KERBY,
HENRY L. CONNELL,

Resolved, that the board of appeals does hereby make a variation in the application of the use district regulations of the building zone resolution, and that the application be and it hereby is granted on condition that the entire property, 100 ft. by 200 ft., embraced in this appeal before the board, be developed as indicated on the plans and built, as a whole, in conjunction with the proposed garage; that the Jerome avenue front be developed as and restricted to business use for shops or stores, separated from the proposed garage by an unpierced wall; that the development for a distance of 90 feet from, and for a frontage of 100 ft. on, Townsend avenue, shall be improved as dwellings; that the business use and dwelling development shall be enclosed and roofed over before a certificate of occupancy shall be issued for the garage structure; that the rear and gable walls of the garage portion shall be unpierced throughout the entire

(410-24-SR)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Board of Standards and Appeals on Friday, July 11, 1924, at 2 p. m., in Room 919, Municipal Building, on proposed amendments of Rules 2 and 3, Industrial Code, and the adoption of the amended rules as rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals affecting the enclosure of Factory Stairways, and the storage of combustible material about factory stairways.

New matter printed below; [] old matter to be omitted.

ENCLOSURE OF FACTORY STAIRWAYS

(410-24-SR)

Supplementary to Labor Law, § 79-b; originally adopted August 28, 1913, and effective October 1, 1913; amended November 18, 1915; revised and readopted February 10, 1916, effective March 1, 1916.

[Rule 2.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings five stories or less in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than twenty-five persons employed above the second floor, all interior stairways, serving as required means of exit, and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from the lowest point of the stairway in accordance with the following schedule:

Number of stories	Contents combustible, no sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, no sprinkler	Contents combustible, and sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, and sprinkler
Three	Stairways Enclosed
Four	Stairways Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed
Five	Stairways Enclosed		Stairways Enclosed

The term "contents" as used above means articles, goods, wares and merchandise, packed, stored, manufactured or in the process of manufacture.

The term "combustible" as used above means articles, goods, wares or merchandise which will burn or support combustion.

The term "sprinkler" as used above means an adequate automatic sprinkler equipment installed and maintained in good working order on each floor.

PUBLIC HEARING

Where the stairway extends to the top floor of the building, such partitions shall extend to three feet above the roof, except in buildings with roofs of non-combustible material, in which case the partitions may stop at the under side of the roof.

All openings in such partitions shall be provided with self-closing doors constructed of fire-resisting material, except where such openings are in the exterior wall of the building.

The bottom of the enclosure shall be of fireproof material at least four inches thick unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Such enclosure of stairways shall not be required where there is an interior enclosed fireproof stairway, or where there is an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway.

A horizontal exit, as defined in section 79-f, subdivision 9 of the Labor Law, will be accepted as a compliance with this rule.

STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL ABOUT FACTORY STAIRWAYS

Supplementary to Labor Law, §79-a to 79-f; adopted August 28, 1913; effective October 1, 1913.

Rule 3.—In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith, nor shall such articles or wares be kept or stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.]

Rule 2.—Definitions.

1. "Height of Building"—For the purpose of classification under this rule, the height of a building shall mean the number of stories, and shall be determined as follows: Where the ground adjoining the building is of uniform grade or does not vary in grade more than one story, the height shall be the number of stories above the lowest grade of the ground adjoining the building; where the ground adjoining the building varies in grade to the extent of involving more than one story, the average between the number of stories above the highest grade and the number of stories above the lowest grade on two or more sides of the building shall be taken as the height of the building. A fraction of a story produced in computing such average shall be counted as one story.

2. "Grade Exit" means a door in an exterior wall of a building from any floor, affording direct access to adjoining ground from which there is safe and unobstructed access to a street or road. In no case shall the vertical distance from door sill to ground exceed five feet, and in case the distance to the ground shall exceed three feet, an approved means of access to the ground shall be provided.

3. "Story" means that part of any building comprised between any floor or roof next above.

4. "Ground Floor" or "First Floor" means the floor at or nearest the ground surrounding the building; unless the ground surrounding the building is irregular in grade, in which case the term shall mean, for the purposes of this rule, the floor which, having one or more exits to grade, is not more than 12 feet above the ground taken at the center line of the facade where the grade is lowest.

The "Ground Floor" and "First Floor" wherever used in these rules are used as synonymous terms.

Rule 2-a.—Occupancy Classification.

WARNING.

Notice is hereby given to all petitioners, appellants and applicants for relief at the hands of the Board of Standards and Appeals and of the Board of Appeals, and to all lawyers, architects and engineers representing owners or lessees in proceedings before these boards—

First, That if they do not appear in person or by representative at the hearing on their case, dismissal for lack of prosecution is likely to result.

Second, That due and ample notice of the date set for hearing is provided in the publication in this BULLETIN of the calendars of these boards, each case being set down by Calendar Number and premises under the date of the hearing.

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the board and of the further publication of the calendars in the daily press.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

Fifth, That the business of these boards is to dispose of all cases promptly, for the reason that the pendency of an appeal or petition ties the hands of the administrative official in enforcing his order; therefore, no appeal or petition will be allowed to be hung up by reason of failure of the appellant or petitioner to file necessary data, or by any other method of delay.

"2. Provide one monitor nozzle for each hose and hydrant as per Rule 37, Board of Standards and Appeals, adopted July 20, 1923. Sec. 776, Greater New York Charter."

and

WHEREAS, the premises consist of a plot of ground with a frontage of 164 ft. on 21st street, a frontage of 175 ft. on Eleventh avenue and an average depth of 2 ft., upon which is located the lumber yard of the Queensborough Lumber Co., consisting of three lumber piles, a clay pipe storage, a lumber shed, a one-story frame g

(410-24-SR)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Board of Standards and Appeals on Friday, July 11, 1924, at 2 p. m., in Room 919, Municipal Building, on proposed amendments of Rules 2 and 3, Industrial Code, and the adoption of the amended rules as rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals affecting the enclosure of factory stairways, and the storage of combustible material about factory stairways.

New matter printed below; [] old matter to be omitted.

ENCLOSURE OF FACTORY STAIRWAYS

(410-24-SR)

Supplementary to Labor Law, § 79-b; originally adopted August 28, 1913, and effective October 1, 1913; amended November 18, 1915; revised and readopted February 10, 1916, effective March 1, 1916.

[Rule 2.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings five stories or less in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than twenty-five persons employed above the second floor, all interior stairways, serving as required means of exit, and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from the lowest point of the stairway in accordance with the following schedule:

Number of stories	Contents combustible, no sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, no sprinkler	Contents combustible, and sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, and sprinkler
Three	Stairways Enclosed
Four	Stairways Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed
Five	Stairways Enclosed		Stairways Enclosed

The term "contents" as used above means articles, goods, wares and merchandise, packed, stored, manufactured or in the process of manufacture.

The term "combustible" as used above means articles, goods, wares or merchandise which will burn or support combustion.

The term "sprinkler" as used above means an adequate automatic sprinkler equipment installed and maintained in good working order on each floor.

PUBLIC HEARING

Where the stairway extends to the top floor of the building, such partitions shall extend to three feet above the roof, except in buildings with roofs of non-combustible material, in which case the partitions may stop at the under side of the roof.

All openings in such partitions shall be provided with self-closing doors constructed of fire-resisting material, except where such openings are in the exterior wall of the building.

The bottom of the enclosure shall be of fireproof material at least four inches thick unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Such enclosure of stairways shall not be required where there is an interior enclosed fireproof stairway, or where there is an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway.

A horizontal exit, as defined in section 79-f, subdivision 9 of the Labor Law, will be accepted as a compliance with this rule.

STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL ABOUT FACTORY STAIRWAYS

1. "Height of Building"—For the purpose of classification under this rule, the height of a building shall mean the number of stories, and shall be determined as follows: Where the ground adjoining the building is of uniform grade or does not vary in grade more than one story, the height shall be the number of stories above the lowest grade of the ground adjoining the building; where the ground adjoining the building varies in grade to the extent of involving more than one story, the average between the number of stories above the highest grade and the number of stories above the lowest grade on two or more sides of the building shall be taken as the height of the building. A fraction of a story produced in computing such average shall be counted as one story.

2. "Grade Exit" means a door in an exterior wall of a building from any floor, affording direct access to adjoining ground from which there is safe and unobstructed access to a street or road. In no case shall the vertical distance from door sill to ground exceed five feet, and in case the distance to the ground shall exceed three feet, an approved means of access to the ground shall be provided.

3. "Story" means that part of any building comprised between any floor or roof next above.

4. "Ground Floor" or "First Floor" means the floor at or nearest the ground surrounding the building; unless the ground surrounding the building is irregular in grade, in which case the term shall mean, for the purposes of this rule, the floor which, having one or more exits to grade, is not more than 12 feet above the ground taken at the center line of the facade where the grade is lowest.

Rule 2-b.

Subdivision 1. Enclosures Required.—Except as hereinafter provided, in all factory buildings more than two stories

PUBLIC HEARING

and less than six stories in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than five persons employed at manufacturing, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from any floor or floors, so served to the nearest approved grade exit of the stairways. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road.

The application of this rule shall be in accordance with the following table:

Stories	1 Contents of high hazard	2 Contents of moderate hazard		3 Contents of low hazard

Three	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Four	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Five	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.

The stairway enclosure shall be independently ceiled over with fire-resisting material.

Exception: Buildings having fireproof roof slab where enclosure terminates at underside of such slab.

Where the stairway is required to extend to the roof, the enclosure shall be so built as to form a pent house.

There shall be not less than seven (7) feet head room in every stairway.

All door openings in such enclosure shall be protected with fire doors opening into the stairway enclosure, equipped with self-closing devices. Grade exit doors shall open outwardly to grade and need not be fire doors.

The enclosure shall be ventilated by a skylight in the roof with louvres or ventilators, or exterior windows with ventilating sections at the top floor. Skylights, unless provided with wired glass, shall have thereunder a shield of wire mesh in substantial frame work.

The bottom of the enclosures shall be of fireproof material at least four (4) inches thick, unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Subdivision 2. Enclosures Not Required.—Except in buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard, the stairways shall not be required to be enclosed where a horizontal exit, as defined in section 267 of the Labor Law, is provided on all floors and the stairways serving as required exits on each side of the horizontal exit are remote from the horizontal exit, provided that either an approved fire alarm signal system conforming to rules of the board is installed in the building and fire drills substantially conforming to rules of the board are held, or an approved sprinkler system conforming to rules of the board is installed.

Rule 2-c.—Required Exits and Enclosures of Stairways in Two-story Factory Buildings.

Required Exits.—In every two-story factory building erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which more than five persons are employed at manufacturing, there shall be provided from each floor at least two means of exit or escape from fire remote from each other, one of which from every floor above or below grade shall lead to or open on an interior stairway which shall be enclosed, as hereinafter provided in subdivision 2, or on an exterior enclosed stairway. The other may lead to such a stairway, or to a horizontal or grade exit, or to an exterior screened stairway, or to a fire escape. No point on any floor of such building shall be more than one hundred and fifty (150) feet distant from such an exit.

2. Enclosure of Stairways.—In two-story buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard and in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit shall be enclosed from the lowest point of such stairway to the ceiling of the first floor by partitions of fire-resisting material, unless the building is provided with a sprinkler system, in which case such enclosure of stairways shall not be required. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road, or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road. All openings in such enclosure shall be provided with fire doors equipped with self-closing devices.

All reference herein to "Enclosure of Stairways" shall be considered as applying only to required stairways.

Rule 3.—Storage of Combustible Material About Factory Stairways.

In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith nor shall such articles or wares be kept stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.

WARNING.

Notice is hereby given to all petitioners, appellants and applicants for relief at the hands of the Board of Standards and Appeals and of the Board of Appeals, and to all lawyers, architects and engineers representing owners or lessees in proceedings before these boards—

First, That if they do not appear in person or by representative at the hearing on their case, dismissal for lack of prosecution is likely to result.

Second, That due and ample notice of the date set for hearing is provided in the publication in this BULLETIN of the calendars of these boards, each case being set down by Calendar Number and premises under the date of the hearing.

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the board and of the further publication of the calendars in the daily press.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

Fifth, That the business of these boards is to dispose of all cases promptly, for the reason that the pendency of an appeal or petition ties the hands of the administrative official in enforcing his order; therefore, no appeal or petition will be allowed to be hung up by reason of failure of the appellant or petitioner to file necessary data, or by any other method of delay.

(a) Fire Escapes.—All substandard fire escapes on factory buildings shall be removed or reconstructed in accordance with Section 274 of the Labor Law, except that in lieu of a counterbalanced stair a drop ladder in guides from the lowest balcony to ground may be provided. Substandard fire escapes shall not be considered as a basis for increased occupancy of the building. When such substandard fire escapes are located in any court or on the side or rear of a building, proper egress to a point of safety shall be provided, either to open adjoining yards, or the lowest balcony may be connected to an adjoining fire escape, exterior stairway, or to roof of adjoining extension, or

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO RULES FOR STAIRWAY ENCLOSURES IN FACTORY BUILDINGS

(410-24-SR)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Board of Standards and Appeals on Friday, July 11, 1924, at 2 p. m., in Room 919, Municipal Building, on proposed amendments of Rules 2 and 3, Industrial Code, and the adoption of the amended rules as rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals affecting the Enclosure of Factory Stairways, and the storage of combustible material about factory stairways.

New matter printed below; [] old matter to be omitted.

ENCLOSURE OF FACTORY STAIRWAYS

(410-24-SR)

Supplementary to Labor Law, § 79-b; originally adopted August 28, 1913, and effective October 1, 1913; amended November 18, 1915; revised and readopted February 10, 1916, effective March 1, 1916.

[Rule 2.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings five stories or less in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than twenty-five persons employed above the second floor, all interior stairways, serving as required means of exit, and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from the lowest point of the stairway in accordance with the following schedule:

Number of stories	Contents combustible, no sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, no sprinkler	Contents combustible, and sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, and sprinkler
Three	Stairways Enclosed
Four	Stairways Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed
Five	Stairways Enclosed		Stairways Enclosed

The term "contents" as used above means articles, goods, wares and merchandise, packed, stored, manufactured or in the process of manufacture.

The term "combustible" as used above means articles, goods, wares or merchandise which will burn or support combustion.

The term "sprinkler" as used above means an adequate automatic sprinkler equipment installed and maintained in good working order on each floor.

PUBLIC HEARING

Where the stairway extends to the top floor of the building, such partitions shall extend to three feet above the roof, except in buildings with roofs of non-combustible material, in which case the partitions may stop at the under side of the roof.

All openings in such partitions shall be provided with self-closing doors constructed of fire-resisting material, except where such openings are in the exterior wall of the building.

The bottom of the enclosure shall be of fireproof material at least four inches thick unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Such enclosure of stairways shall not be required where there is an interior enclosed fireproof stairway, or where there is an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway.

A horizontal exit, as defined in section 79-f, subdivision 9 of the Labor Law, will be accepted as a compliance with this rule.

STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL ABOUT FACTORY STAIRWAYS

Supplementary to Labor Law, §79-a to 79-f; adopted August 28, 1913; effective October 1, 1913.

Rule 3.—In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith, nor shall such articles or wares be kept or stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.]

Rule 2.—Definitions.

1. "Height of Building"—For the purpose of classification under this rule, the height of a building shall mean the number of stories, and shall be determined as follows: Where the ground adjoining the building is of uniform grade or does not vary in grade more than one story, the height shall be the number of stories above the lowest grade of the ground adjoining the building; where the ground adjoining the building varies in grade to the extent of involving more than one story, the average between the number of stories above the highest grade and the number of stories above the lowest grade on two or more sides of the building shall be taken as the height of the building. A fraction of a story produced in computing such average shall be counted as one story.

2. "Grade Exit" means a door in an exterior wall of a building from any floor, affording direct access to adjoining ground from which there is safe and unobstructed access to a street or road. In no case shall the vertical distance from door sill to ground exceed five feet, and in case the distance to the ground shall exceed three feet, an approved means of access to the ground shall be provided.

3. "Story" means that part of any building comprised between any floor or roof next above.

4. "Ground Floor" or "First Floor" means the floor at or nearest the ground surrounding the building; unless the ground surrounding the building is irregular in grade, in which case the term shall mean, for the purposes of this rule, the floor which, having one or more exits to grade, is not more than 12 feet above the ground taken at the center line of the facade where the grade is lowest.

The "Ground Floor" and "First Floor" wherever used in these rules are used as synonymous terms.

Rule 2-a.—Occupancy Classification.

The following classification of occupancy with respect to the degree of hazard is hereby established:

Low Hazard

High Hazard

3. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which are liable to burn with extreme rapidity or from which poisonous fumes or explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Artificial flowers
Artificial leather
Celluloid
Cereal mills
*Chemicals of all kinds (except where serious flame, fume or explosion hazards are not present)
Cotton batting
Cotton clothing (women's)

Rule 2-b.

Subdivision 1. Enclosures Required.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings more than two stories

PUBLIC HEARING

and less than six stories in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than five persons employed at manufacturing, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from any floor or floors, so served to the nearest approved grade exit of the stairways. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road.

The application of this rule shall be in accordance with the following table:

Stories	1 Contents of high hazard	2 Contents of moderate hazard		3 Contents of low hazard
		No sprinkler	Sprinkler	No sprinkler	Sprinkler
Three	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Four	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Five	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.

The stairway enclosure shall be independently ceiled over with fire-resisting material.

Exception: Buildings having fireproof roof slab where enclosure terminates at underside of such slab.

Where the stairway is required to extend to the roof, the enclosure shall be so built as to form a pent house.

There shall be not less than seven (7) feet head room in every stairway.

All door openings in such enclosure shall be protected with fire doors opening into the stairway enclosure, equipped with self-closing devices. Grade exit doors shall open outwardly to grade and need not be fire doors.

The enclosure shall be ventilated by a skylight in the roof with louvres or ventilators, or exterior windows with ventilating sections at the top floor. Exterior windows within thirty (30) feet of non-fireproof structures shall be fireproof windows. Skylights, unless provided with wired glass, shall have thereunder a shield of wire mesh in substantial frame work.

The bottom of the enclosures shall be of fireproof material at least four (4) inches thick, unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Subdivision 2. Enclosures Not Required.—Except in buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard, the stairways shall not be required to be enclosed where a horizontal exit, as defined in section 267 of the Labor Law, is provided on all floors and the stairways serving as required exits on each side of the horizontal exit are remote from the horizontal exit, provided that either an approved fire alarm signal system conforming to rules of the board is installed in the building and fire drills substantially conforming to rules of the board are held, or an approved sprinkler system conforming to rules of the board is installed.

Rule 2-c.—Required Exits and Enclosures of Stairways in Two-story Factory Buildings.

1. Required Exits.—In every two-story factory building erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which more than five persons are employed at manufacturing, there shall be provided from each floor at least two means of exit or escape from fire remote from each other, one of which from every floor above or below grade shall lead to or open on an interior stairway which shall be enclosed, as hereinafter provided in subdivision 2, or on an exterior enclosed stairway. The other may lead to such a stairway, or to a horizontal or grade exit, or to an exterior screened stairway, or to a fire escape. No point on any floor of such building shall be more than one hundred and fifty (150) feet distant from such an exit.

2. Enclosure of Stairways.—In two-story buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard and in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit shall be enclosed from the lowest point of such stairway to the ceiling of the first floor by partitions of fire-resisting material, unless the building is provided with a sprinkler system, in which case such enclosure of stairways shall not be required. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road, or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road. All openings in such enclosure shall be provided with fire doors equipped with self-closing devices.

All reference herein to "Enclosure of Stairways" shall be considered as applying only to required stairways.

Rule 3.—Storage of Combustible Material About Factory Stairways.

In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith nor shall such articles or wares be kept stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.

WARNING.

Notice is hereby given to all petitioners, appellants and applicants for relief at the hands of the Board of Standards and Appeals and of the Board of Appeals, and to all lawyers, architects and engineers representing owners or lessees in proceedings before these boards—

First, That if they do not appear in person or by representative at the hearing on their case, dismissal for lack of prosecution is likely to result.

Second, That due and ample notice of the date set for hearing is provided in the publication in this BULLETIN of the calendars of these boards, each case being set down by Calendar Number and premises under the date of the hearing.

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the board and of the further publication of the calendars in the daily press.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

Fifth, That the business of these boards is to dispose of all cases promptly, for the reason that the pendency of an appeal or petition ties the hands of the administrative official in enforcing his order; therefore, no appeal or petition will be allowed to be hung up by reason of failure of the appellant or petitioner to file necessary data, or by any other method of delay.

(410-24-SR)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Board of Standards and Appeals on Friday, July 11, 1924, at 2 p. m., in Room 919, Municipal Building, on proposed amendments of Rules 2 and 3, Industrial Code, and the adoption of the amended rules as rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals affecting the Enclosure of Factory Stairways, and the storage of combustible material about factory stairways.

New matter printed below; [] old matter to be omitted.

ENCLOSURE OF FACTORY STAIRWAYS

(410-24-SR)

Supplementary to Labor Law, § 79-b; originally adopted August 28, 1913, and effective October 1, 1913; amended November 18, 1915; revised and readopted February 10, 1916, effective March 1, 1916.

[Rule 2.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings five stories or less in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than twenty-five persons employed above the second floor, all interior stairways, serving as required means of exit, and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from the lowest point of the stairway in accordance with the following schedule:

Number of stories	Contents combustible, no sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, no sprinkler	Contents combustible, and sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, and sprinkler
Three	Stairways Enclosed
Four	Stairways Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed
Five	Stairways Enclosed		Stairways Enclosed

The term "contents" as used above means articles, goods, wares and merchandise, packed, stored, manufactured or in the process of manufacture.

The term "combustible" as used above means articles, goods, wares or merchandise which will burn or support combustion.

The term "sprinkler" as used above means an adequate automatic sprinkler equipment installed and maintained in good working order on each floor.

PUBLIC HEARING

Where the stairway extends to the top floor of the building, such partitions shall extend to three feet above the roof, except in buildings with roofs of non-combustible material, in which case the partitions may stop at the under side of the roof.

All openings in such partitions shall be provided with self-closing doors constructed of fire-resisting material, except where such openings are in the exterior wall of the building.

The bottom of the enclosure shall be of fireproof material at least four inches thick unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Such enclosure of stairways shall not be required where there is an interior enclosed fireproof stairway, or where there is an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway.

A horizontal exit, as defined in section 79-f, subdivision 9 of the Labor Law, will be accepted as a compliance with this rule.

STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL ABOUT FACTORY STAIRWAYS

Supplementary to Labor Law, §79-a to 79-f; adopted August 28, 1913; effective October 1, 1913.

Rule 3.—In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith, nor shall such articles or wares be kept or stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.]

Rule 2.—Definitions.

1. "Height of Building"—For the purpose of classification under this rule, the height of a building shall mean the number of stories, and shall be determined as follows: Where the ground adjoining the building is of uniform grade or does not vary in grade more than one story, the height shall be the number of stories above the lowest grade of the ground adjoining the building; where the ground adjoining the building varies in grade to the extent of involving more than one story, the average between the number of stories above the highest grade and the number of stories above the lowest grade on two or more sides of the building shall be taken as the height of the building. A fraction of a story produced in computing such average shall be counted as one story.

2. "Grade Exit" means a door in an exterior wall of a building from any floor, affording direct access to adjoining ground from which there is safe and unobstructed access to a street or road. In no case shall the vertical distance from door sill to ground exceed five feet, and in case the distance to the ground shall exceed three feet, an approved means of access to the ground shall be provided.

3. "Story" means that part of any building comprised between any floor or roof next above.

4. "Ground Floor" or "First Floor" means the floor at or nearest the ground surrounding the building; unless the ground surrounding the building is irregular in grade, in which case the term shall mean, for the purposes of this rule, the floor which, having one or more exits to grade, is not more than 12 feet above the ground taken at the center line of the facade where the grade is lowest.

The "Ground Floor" and "First Floor" wherever used in these rules are used as synonymous terms.

Rule 2-a.—Occupancy Classification.

The following classification of occupancy with respect to the degree of hazard is hereby established:

Low Hazard

1. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which do not ordinarily burn rapidly or with excessive smoke, and from which neither poisonous fumes nor explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Asbestos	Glass
Baking powder	Glue, mucilage, paste, size
Breweries	Ivory
Buttons (pearl or bone)	Leather (excluding japanning or enameling)

Condensed and powdered milk	Porcelain and pottery
Electric light plants and power houses	Talc and soapstone
Electrolytic reducing works	Tanneries (excluding japanning or enameling)

Moderate Hazard

2. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which are liable to burn with moderate rapidity and to give off considerable volume of smoke, but from which neither poisonous fumes nor explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Bags (cloth, burlap and paper)	Linoleum works
Bakeries	Metals (with enameling or japanning)
Bamboo and rattan	Packing houses
Baskets	Paper mills
Belting (including canvas)	Printing, lithographing, book binding

Furs	Woodworking (excluding dipping or varnishing)
Gloves (other than leather)
Horn and combs (not celluloid)
Leather (with enameling or japanning)

High Hazard

3. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which are liable to burn with extreme rapidity and from which poisonous fumes or explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Artificial flowers	Feed, flour and grist mills
Artificial leather	Fireworks
Celluloid	Imitation leather
Cereal mills	Matches
*Chemicals of all kinds (except where serious flame, fume or explosion hazards are not present)	Rag sorting (including cotton)
Cotton batting	Shoddy mills
Cotton clothing (women's)	Starch and sugar mills (including pulverizing)
Cotton waste	Straw goods
Dry cleaning	Varnish
Explosives	Woodworking (with dipping or varnishing)
Feather renovating

The Board shall rule upon new occupancies as they arise and pass upon points under dispute.

Where there are occupancies of two or more degrees of hazard, the building shall be classified according to the higher hazard, unless special modification is made by the Board in cases where the higher hazard is incidental and well segregated.

Rule 2-b.

Subdivision 1. Enclosures Required.—Except as hereinafter provided, in all factory buildings more than two stories

PUBLIC HEARING

and less than six stories in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than five persons employed at manufacturing, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from any floor or floors, so served to the nearest approved grade exit of the stairways. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road.

The application of this rule shall be in accordance with the following table:

Stories	1 Contents of high hazard	2 Contents of moderate hazard		3 Contents of low hazard
		No sprinkler	Sprinkler	No sprinkler	Sprinkler
Three	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Four	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Five	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.

The stairway enclosure shall be independently ceiled over with fire-resisting material.

Exception: Buildings having fireproof roof slab where enclosure terminates at underside of such slab.

Where the stairway is required to extend to the roof, the enclosure shall be so built as to form a pent house.

There shall be not less than seven (7) feet head room in every stairway.

All door openings in such enclosure shall be protected with fire doors opening into the stairway enclosure, equipped with self-closing devices. Grade exit doors shall open outwardly to grade and need not be fire doors.

The enclosure shall be ventilated by a skylight in the roof with louvres or ventilators, or exterior windows with ventilating sections at the top floor. Exterior windows within thirty (30) feet of non-fireproof structures shall be fireproof windows. Skylights, unless provided with wired glass, shall have thereunder a shield of wire mesh in substantial frame work.

The bottom of the enclosures shall be of fireproof material at least four (4) inches thick, unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Subdivision 2. Enclosures Not Required.—Except in buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard, the stairways shall not be required to be enclosed where a horizontal exit, as defined in section 267 of the Labor Law, is provided on all floors and the stairways serving as required exits on each side of the horizontal exit are remote from the horizontal exit, provided that either an approved fire alarm signal system conforming to rules of the board is installed in the building and fire drills substantially conforming to rules of the board are held, or an approved sprinkler system conforming to rules of the board is installed.

Rule 2-c.—Required Exits and Enclosures of Stairways in Two-story Factory Buildings.

1. Required Exits.—In every two-story factory building erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which more than five persons are employed at manufacturing, there shall be provided from each floor at least two means of exit or escape from fire remote from each other, one of which from every floor above or below grade shall lead to or open on an interior stairway which shall be enclosed, as hereinafter provided in subdivision 2, or on an exterior enclosed stairway. The other may lead to such a stairway, or to a horizontal or grade exit, or to an exterior screened stairway, or to a fire escape. No point on any floor of such building shall be more than one hundred and fifty (150) feet distant from such an exit.

2. Enclosure of Stairways.—In two-story buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard and in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit shall be enclosed from the lowest point of such stairway to the ceiling of the first floor by partitions of fire-resisting material, unless the building is provided with a sprinkler system, in which case such enclosure of stairways shall not be required. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road, or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road. All openings in such enclosure shall be provided with fire doors equipped with self-closing devices.

All reference herein to "Enclosure of Stairways" shall be considered as applying only to required stairways.

Rule 3.—Storage of Combustible Material About Factory Stairways.

In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith nor shall such articles or wares be kept stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.

RULES

COMMUNITY LAUNDRIES IN BUSINESS DISTRICTS.

Amended Resolution Adopted by the Board of Appeals,
March 16, 1920, Under Cal. No. 549-17-BZ.

WHEREAS, the board of appeals, at its regular meeting, December 16, 1919, unanimously rescinded an opinion incidentally expressed and incorporated in a resolution adopted by the board on May 28, 1917, in acting on Cal. No. 549-17-BZ. This opinion was that a laundry is not a prohibited use in a business district under the building zone resolution. The board unanimously rescinded this expression of opinion, inasmuch as a laundry is a factory within the meaning of the labor law and must be so construed under the building zone resolution in the absence of any definition therein to the contrary.

Resolved, that this shall not be construed to include within the prohibited uses specified under Section 4 of the building zone resolution a community or neighborhood laundry located in the basement or ground floor of a building within a business district and containing not more than eight (8) rotary washing machines with inside cylinders not more than 30 in. in diameter by 30 in. in length over all nor more than two 20 in. extractors, the 20 in. measurement being the diameter of the inside basket, which machines and extractors shall be operated solely by electric power and do not require the installation of steam boiler or plant.

(Cal. No. 414-24-SR)

Rule 3 of Fire Escape Rules of Board of Standards and Appeals, adopted July 2, 1918, Cal. No. 1218-18-S; Amended Dec. 12, 1918, Cal. No. 1708-18-S; Amended May 9, 1924; Cal. No. 414-24-SR.

EXISTING FIRE ESCAPES OF FACTORIES.

3. When in addition to the required exits from any factory or factory building, there exist other means of egress which are not entirely in accordance with the requirements of the Labor Law and the Rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals, such means of egress may be retained under the following conditions.

(a) Fire Escapes.—All substandard fire escapes on factory buildings shall be removed or reconstructed in accordance with Section 274 of the Labor Law, except that in lieu of a counterbalanced stair a drop ladder in guides from the lowest balcony to ground may be provided. Substandard fire escapes shall not be considered as a basis for increased occupancy of the building. When such substandard fire escapes are located in any court or on the side or rear of a building, proper egress to a point of safety shall be provided, either to open adjoining yards, or the lowest balcony may be connected to an adjoining fire escape, exterior stairway, or to roof of adjoining extension, or other egress satisfactory to the Fire Commissioner. All such fire escapes shall be maintained structurally safe and properly painted.

(b) Interior Stairways—All interior stairways not conforming to the requirements of the Labor Law or rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals may be retained, provided that egress to same is maintained unobstructed, halls are properly lighted, and all landings, passageways, etc., are maintained free and unobstructed. An easily operated panic bolt or other similar device may be installed at street exit door.

(c) Exterior Screened Stairways—Exterior screened stairways not serving as a required means of egress shall be either removed or maintained structurally safe and properly painted, exits thereto and all platforms and passageways thereof shall be maintained unobstructed, and egress from termination shall be as provided for substandard fire escapes in subdivision a.

(d) Horizontal Bridges—Horizontal bridges and party wall balconies between buildings shall be removed or maintained structurally safe and properly painted, and access thereto and all passageways thereof shall be maintained unobstructed.

(e) No sign of any character shall be placed at openings leading to these substandard exits.

PUBLIC HEARING

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO RULES FOR STAIRWAY ENCLOSURES IN FACTORY BUILDINGS

(410-24-SR)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the final hearing will be held by the Board of Standards and Appeals on Tuesday, July 29, 1924, at 2 p. m., in Room 919, Municipal Building, on proposed amendments of Rules 2 and 3, Industrial Code, and the adoption of the amended rules as rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals affecting the enclosure of factory stairways, and the storage of combustible material about factory stairways.

New matter printed below; [] old matter to be omitted.

ENCLOSURE OF FACTORY STAIRWAYS

(410-24-SR)

Supplementary to Labor Law, § 79-b; originally adopted August 28, 1913, and effective October 1, 1913; amended November 18, 1915; revised and readopted February 10, 1916, effective March 1, 1916.

[Rule 2.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings five stories or less in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than twenty-five persons employed above the second floor, all interior stairways, serving as required means of exit, and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from the lowest point of the stairway in accordance with the following schedule:

Number of stories	Contents combustible, no sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, no sprinkler	Contents combustible, and sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, and sprinkler
Three	Stairways Enclosed
Four	Stairways Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed
Five	Stairways Enclosed		Stairways Enclosed

The term "contents" as used above means articles, goods, wares and merchandise, packed, stored, manufactured or in the process of manufacture.

The term "combustible" as used above means articles, goods, wares or merchandise which will burn or support combustion.

The term "sprinkler" as used above means an adequate automatic sprinkler equipment installed and maintained in good working order on each floor.

PUBLIC HEARING

Where the stairway extends to the top floor of the building, such partitions shall extend to three feet above the roof, except in buildings with roofs of non-combustible material, in which case the partitions may stop at the under side of the roof.

All openings in such partitions shall be provided with self-closing doors constructed of fire-resisting material, except where such openings are in the exterior wall of the building.

The bottom of the enclosure shall be of fireproof material at least four inches thick unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Such enclosure of stairways shall not be required where there is an interior enclosed fireproof stairway, or where there is an exterior enclosed fireproof stairway.

A horizontal exit, as defined in section 79-f, subdivision 9 of the Labor Law, will be accepted as a compliance with this rule.

STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL ABOUT FACTORY STAIRWAYS

Supplementary to Labor Law, §79-a to 79-f; adopted August 28, 1913; effective October 1, 1913.

Rule 3.—In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith, nor shall such articles or wares be kept or stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.]

Rule 2.—Definitions.

1. "Height of Building"—For the purpose of classification under this rule, the height of a building shall mean the number of stories, and shall be determined as follows: Where the ground adjoining the building is of uniform grade or does not vary in grade more than one story, the height shall be the number of stories above the lowest grade of the ground adjoining the building; where the ground adjoining the building varies in grade to the extent of involving more than one story, the average between the number of stories above the highest grade and the number of stories above the lowest grade on two or more sides of the building shall be taken as the height of the building. A fraction of a story produced in computing such average shall be counted as one story.

2. "Grade Exit" means a door in an exterior wall of a building from any floor, affording direct access to adjoining ground from which there is safe and unobstructed access to a street or road. In no case shall the vertical distance from door sill to ground exceed five feet, and in case the distance to the ground shall exceed three feet, an approved means of access to the ground shall be provided.

3. "Story" means that part of any building comprised between any floor or roof next above.

4. "Ground Floor" or "First Floor" means the floor at or nearest the ground surrounding the building; unless the ground surrounding the building is irregular in grade, in which case the term shall mean, for the purposes of this rule, the floor which, having one or more exits to grade, is not more than 12 feet above the ground taken at the center line of the facade where the grade is lowest.

The "Ground Floor" and "First Floor" wherever used in these rules are used as synonymous terms.

Rule 2-a.—Occupancy Classification.

The following classification of occupancy with respect to the degree of hazard is hereby established:

Low Hazard

1. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which do not ordinarily burn rapidly or with excessive smoke, and from which neither poisonous fumes nor explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Asbestos
Baking powder
Breweries
Buttons (pearl or bone)
Canneries (including food products)
Chalk and crayon
Condensed and powdered milk

Metals (excluding japanning or enameling)
Soap, candles
Porcelain and pottery
Talc and soapstone
Tanneries (excluding japanning or enameling)

Moderate Hazard

2. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which are liable to burn with moderate rapidity and to give off considerable volume of smoke, but from which neither poisonous fumes nor explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Bags (cloth, burlap and paper)	Linoleum works
Bakeries	Metals (with enameling or japanning)
Bamboo and rattan	Packing houses

Leather (with enameling or japanning)

High Hazard

3. Occupancies involving the storage or use of materials which are liable to burn with extreme rapidity or from which poisonous fumes or explosions are to be apprehended in the event of fire. The following list includes and indicates the types of occupancy coming within this class:

Artificial flowers	Feed, flour and grist mills
Artificial leather	Fireworks
Celluloid	Imitation leather
Cereal mills	Matches
*Chemicals of all kinds (except where serious flame, fume or explosion hazards are not present)	Rag sorting (including cotton)

The Board shall rule upon new occupancies as they arise and pass upon points under dispute.

Where there are occupancies of two or more degrees of hazard, the building shall be classified according to the higher hazard, unless special modification is made by the Board in cases where the higher hazard is incidental or well segregated.

Rule 2-b.

Subdivision 1. Enclosures Required.—Except as here-in provided, in all factory buildings more than two stories

PUBLIC HEARING

and less than six stories in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than five persons employed at manufacturing, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from any floor or floors, so served to the nearest approved grade exit of the stairways. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road.

The application of this rule shall be in accordance with the following table:

Stories	1 Contents of high hazard	2 Contents of moderate hazard		3 Contents of low hazard
		No sprinkler	Sprinkler	No sprinkler	Sprinkler
Three	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Four	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.
Five	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 5 persons are employed at manufacturing above first floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.	Stairways to be enclosed if more than 25 persons are employed at manufacturing above second floor.

The stairway enclosure shall be independently ceiled over with fire-resisting material.

Exception: Buildings having fireproof roof slab where enclosure terminates at underside of such slab.

Where the stairway is required to extend to the roof, the enclosure shall be so built as to form a pent house.

There shall be not less than seven (7) feet head room in every stairway.

All door openings in such enclosure shall be protected with fire doors opening into the stairway enclosure, equipped with self-closing devices. Grade exit doors shall open outwardly to grade and need not be fire doors.

The enclosure shall be ventilated by a skylight in the roof with louvres or ventilators, or exterior windows with ventilating sections at the top floor. Exterior windows within thirty (30) feet of non-fireproof structures shall be fireproof windows. Skylights, unless provided with wired glass, shall have thereunder a shield of wire mesh in substantial frame work.

The bottom of the enclosures shall be of fireproof material at least four (4) inches thick, unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

Subdivision 2. Enclosures Not Required.—Except in buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard, the stairways shall not be required to be enclosed where a horizontal exit, as defined in section 267 of the Labor Law, is provided on all floors and the stairways serving as required exits on each side of the horizontal exit are remote from the horizontal exit, provided that either an approved fire alarm signal system conforming to rules of the board is installed in the building and fire drills substantially conforming to rules of the board are held, or an approved sprinkler system conforming to rules of the board is installed.

Rule 2-c.—Required Exits and Enclosures of Stairways in Two-story Factory Buildings.

Required Exits.—In every two-story factory building erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which more than five persons are employed at manufacturing, there shall be provided from each floor at least two means of exit or escape from fire remote from each other, one of which from every floor above or below grade shall lead to or open on an interior stairway which shall be enclosed, as hereinafter provided in subdivision 2, or on an exterior enclosed stairway. The other may lead to such a stairway, or to a horizontal or grade exit, or to an exterior screened stairway, or to a fire escape. No point on any floor of such building shall be more than one hundred and fifty (150) feet distant from such an exit.

2. Enclosure of Stairways.—In two-story buildings in which the contents are classified as of high hazard and in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit shall be enclosed from the lowest point of such stairway to the ceiling of the first floor by partitions of fire-resisting material, unless the building is provided with a sprinkler system, in which case such enclosure of stairways shall not be required. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road, or to an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road. All openings in such enclosure shall be provided with fire doors equipped with self-closing devices.

All reference herein to "Enclosure of Stairways" shall be considered as applying only to required stairways.

Rule 3.—Storage of Combustible Material About Factory Stairways.

In all factory buildings no articles or wares of a combustible nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith nor shall such articles or wares be kept stored under any stairway unless such stairway and any partitions or doors thereunder are constructed of or covered with incombustible material.

WARNING.

Notice is hereby given to all petitioners, appellants and applicants for relief at the hands of the Board of Standards and Appeals and of the Board of Appeals, and to all lawyers, architects and engineers representing owners or lessees in proceedings before these boards—

First, That if they do not appear in person or by representative at the hearing on their case, dismissal for lack of prosecution is likely to result.

Second, That due and ample notice of the date set for hearing is provided in the publication in this BULLETIN of the calendars of these boards, each case being set down by Calendar Number and premises under the date of the hearing.

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the board and of the further publication of the calendars in the daily press.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

Fifth, That the business of these boards is to dispose of all cases promptly, for the reason that the pendency of an appeal or petition ties the hands of the administrative official in enforcing his order; therefore, no appeal or petition will be allowed to be hung up by reason of failure of the appellant or petitioner to file necessary data, or by any other method of delay.

WARNING.

Notice is hereby given to all petitioners, appellants and applicants for relief at the hands of the Board of Standards and Appeals and of the Board of Appeals, and to all lawyers, architects and engineers representing owners or lessees in proceedings before these boards—

First, That if they do not appear in person or by representative at the hearing on their case, dismissal for lack of prosecution is likely to result.

Second, That due and ample notice of the date set for hearing is provided in the publication in this BULLETIN of the calendars of these boards, each case being set down by Calendar Number and premises under the date of the hearing.

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the board and of the further publication of the calendars in the daily press.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

Fifth, That the business of these boards is to dispose of all cases promptly, for the reason that the pendency of an appeal or petition ties the hands of the administrative official in enforcing his order; therefore, no appeal or petition will be allowed to be hung up by reason of failure of the appellant or petitioner to file necessary data, or by any other method of delay.

WHEREAS, the building was erected in 1913-14, and it was equipped with four 6 in. risers, each riser provided with the Ford pressure reducing valves installed in the regular manner in a bypass, with horizontal check valve looping and vertical check valves; these Ford pressure reducing valves having been approved by the fire department; and

WHEREAS, appellant requests that permission be granted to install a 2½ inch pressure regulating or reducing valve on each standpipe and to make tests of the valves now on the market; and

WHEREAS, a committee of the board inspected the pressure and report.

Cal. No. 455-24-A.

Approval of the Ross Regulating Valve.

July 18, 1924.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE:

A committee of the board consisting of Chairman Walsh, Fire Chief Kenlon and Mr. Holland visited the premises, No. 120 Broadway, Manhattan, the Equitable building, to inspect and observe the method proposed for pressure reduction of the hose outlet.

The test was operated by the uniformed force of the fire department by Deputy Chief Marshall, a lieutenant and two firemen, under the direction of Fire Chief Kenlon. The device used was the Ross regulating valve placed in the standpipe line at the basement outlet with a gauge on the line, a gauge on the device and a gauge at the hose nozzle. The pressure obtained from the standpipe line as indicated on the gauge was 250 lbs., the pressure at the outlet side of the valve was 65 to 80 lbs., the pressure at the nozzle was 50 lbs., and the pressure at the valve remained constant whether water was flowing or not.

The standpipe system is now equipped with the Ross regulating valve and meets all conditions imposed by the standpipe rules of the board of standards and appeals.

(Signed) WILLIAM E. WALSH,
JOHN KENLON,
JAMES P. HOLLAND,

Resolved, that the order of the fire commissioner be and it hereby is reversed, and the appeal granted in conformity with the report of the committee of the board.

PROPOSED RULES

ENCLOSURE OF FACTORY STAIRWAYS (410-24-SR)

Supplementary to Labor Law, § 271; originally adopted August 28, 1913, and effective October 1, 1913; amended November 18, 1915; revised and readopted February 10, 1916, effective March 1, 1916.

Rule 1.—Except as herein provided, in all factory buildings five stories or less in height, erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which there are more than twenty-five persons employed above the second story, all interior stairways, serving as required means of exit, and the landings, platforms and passageways connected therewith, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire-resisting material extending continuously from the lowest point of the stairway in accordance with the following schedule:

Number of stories	Contents combustible, no sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, no sprinkler	Contents combustible, and sprinkler	Contents non-combustible, and sprinkler
Three	Stairways Enclosed
Four	Stairways Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed
Five	Stairways Enclosed	Stairway Enclosed	Stairways Enclosed

The term "contents" as used above means articles, goods, wares and merchandise, packed, stored, manufactured or in the process of manufacture.

The term "combustible" as used above means articles, goods, wares or merchandise which will burn or support combustion.

The term "sprinkler" as used above means an adequate automatic sprinkler equipment installed and maintained in good working order on each floor.

The term "story" as used above means that part of a building between any floor and the floor or roof next above;—the first story is that part of a building which is more than 50 per cent above the floor below and the floor next above the curb or average grade level.

Where the stairway extends to the top floor of the building, such partitions shall extend to the under side of the roof boarding that portion of the under side of the roof beams within the stair enclosure shall be covered with fire resisting material, except in buildings with roofs of non-combustible material, in which case the partitions may stop at the under side of the roof.

Where the stairway is required to extend to the roof, the enclosure shall be so built as to form a bulkhead. The enclosure shall be ventilated by a skylight in the roof with louvres or ventilators, or exterior windows with ventilating sections at the top floor.

All openings in such partitions shall be provided with approved self-closing fire doors, except where such openings are in the exterior wall of the building.

The bottom of the enclosure shall be of fireproof material at least four inches thick unless the partition extends to the cellar bottom.

A horizontal exit, as defined in section 267 of the Labor Law, will be accepted as a compliance with this rule when both sides of the fire wall or walls are occupied by any factory floor by the same occupant.

Rule 2.—Where there are occupancies on any story or part of a story involving the storage or use below the top story of the following materials and exceeding the amount specified, and there are more than 5 persons employed at manufacturing above such occupancy.

The interior stairway serving as required means of egress shall be enclosed on that story with fire resisting material from floor to under side of floor above, including any exposed stair soffits, landings and passageways; openings shall be provided with approved self-closing fire doors.

Nitrocellulose in any shape or form, 10 lbs.

Volatile inflammable oils, 1 gal.

Volatile inflammable mixtures, 5 gals.

Combustible mixtures, 10 gals.

Paints, varnishes and lacquers, 10 gals.

The Board shall rule upon new occupancies as they arise and pass upon points under dispute.

When more than two stories are to be segregated, as above, the entire stairway shall be enclosed in fire-resisting material where there are more than 5 persons employed at manufacturing above the first story.

Rule 3.—Required Exits and Enclosures of Stairways in Two-story Factory Buildings.

1. Required Exits.—In every two-story factory building erected prior to October 1, 1913, in which more than five persons are employed at manufacturing, there shall be provided from each story at least two means of exit or escape from fire remote from each other, one of which from every floor above or below grade shall lead to or open on an interior stairway which shall be enclosed, as hereinafter provided, or on an exterior enclosed stairway. The other may lead to such a stairway, or to a horizontal or grade exit, or to an exterior screened stairway, or to a fire escape conforming to section 273, Labor Law. Except that exit door shall be a fire door, with substantial steps to the sills, properly screened. When sill is more than 8 inches above the floor level, and where there is no safe egress from the roof, a gooseneck ladder shall be provided from top balcony to the roof.

Unobstructed egress from the foot of the fire escape or exterior screened stairway shall be as required by section 273, Labor Law, or to open adjoining yard with egress to the street. No point on any floor of such building shall be more than one hundred and fifty (150) feet distant from such an exit.

Rule 4.—Enclosure of Stairways.—In two-story buildings where there are occupancies on any story or part of a story involving the storage or use below the top story of any of the materials exceeding the amounts specified in Rule 2 and there are more than 5 persons employed at manufacturing above such occupancy, all interior stairways serving as required means of exit shall be enclosed from the lowest point of such stairway to the ceiling of the first floor by partitions of fire-resisting material, unless the building is provided with a wet sprinkler system, in which case such enclosure of stairways shall not be required. Such enclosures shall lead directly to a door opening outwardly to a street or road, or an open area affording unobstructed passage to a street or road. All openings in such enclosure shall be provided with fire doors equipped with self-closing devices.

All reference herein to "Enclosure of Stairways" shall be considered as applying only to required stairways.

Rule 5.—Storage of Combustible Material About Factory Stairways.

In all factory buildings no articles or wares of any nature shall be kept or stored inside the limits of any stairway enclosure or unenclosed stairway, or on the landings, platforms or passageways connected therewith.
